for some folks reckon Ben Franklin's "Poor Richard" publication in that class, and for two generations the New Eng-land almanac and the Bible furnished the bulk of the average Yankee farmer's reading. Faith in the weather pre-dictions was so strong that thousands of farmers regulated their work thereby, and about sixty years ago this faith was confirmed in a very remarkable man-ner. By mistake snow was predicted for July 4. There was a general laugh, but the snow came not much, of course, but enough to excite general amazement, and thereafter Daboll's pre-

The "New England Almarac and Farmers' Friend" has been issued an-nually since 1772, and always by a Da-

of the Nathan Daboll who founded the dictions were gospel. Nathan Daboll worked out the tables and predictions and issued the first almanac in 1772. He was professor of mathematics at Plainfield academy and author of the famous old "Daboll's Arithmetic." In 1818 his son, Nathan, took up the work and continued it till 1864, when one of his six sons, David A., succeeded him. They have always pursued the same system. They have a journal of the weather for two or three generations past and a table of conjunctions of sun, moon and planets. Whenever a certain conjunction has been weather several times they assume that it will be so for the coming year, and they hit it often enough to convince the

The almanac also contains nautical tables and all sorts of information for seafaring men. Indeed the Dabolls are all mathematicians, and one of them invented the foghorn which warns mariners off the coast in thick weather. The old house is in the hamlet of Center Groton, about four miles east of New London, and for several years a nautical school was taught there, at which more than 200 New England boys were fitted on the navy.

The Daboll almanac for 1892 predicts hot weather, beginning on June 15, and a great drouth till July 1, then very light showers only till the 18th and 19th. when there will be very heavy rains. It is to be hoped that "Old Daboll," as they call him, is correct, for the wheat growers of all the central states could not have better weather than that if they made it themselves. "A dry June for wheat" is an old proverb, and then "late July rain for fall pastures."

In Great Need of Repair. Arlington, in Sussex, England, is evidently not a stronghold of the Episco-pal church. In an appeal for a restora-tion fund, the vicar, the Rev. T. Bunston, describes as follows the condition of the house of worship in that parish: "When I took over the incumbency four years ago I found the porch falling away from the nave, and holes in the roof letting in the rain; the owls and other birds made it their home and flew about the church at all times. The tower was covered with a green slime. There was no provision for Sunday school work, and the children attended a Nonconformist place of worship. Summer Fabrics 80 Cortlandt St., New York, Feast days have never been recognized, and in fact everything was fast going to ruin." There has been nothing to equal this, says The Pall Mall Budget, since the ancient prophet wrote: "And thorns shall come up in her palaces, nettles and brambles in the fortresses thereof; and it shall be an habitation of dragons and a court for owls. The wild beasts of the desert shall also meet with the wild beasts of the island, and the satyr shall cry to his fellow; the screech owl also shall rest there and find for herself a place of rest."

What a Place for a Sprinter.

The native bachelor of Singapore who wishes to get married must be a sprinter to accomplish his desire, unless, indeed. the object of his adoration should be so corpulent that her power of rapid locomotion is somewhat impaired. A circular course is marked out, half of which is traversed by the maiden—incumbered only with a waistband-ere the word is given for the would be possessor to go in pursuit, in the hope of overtaking her before she has thrice compassed the circle; that achieved, she has no choice but to take the victor for her/lord. It is hinted, but verhaps this is the fabrication of some "horrid man," that many of the damsels so regulate their speed as to make it certain that they will be caught on the last lap.
